Mosby on His Muscle.

A dispatch from San Francisco states that fur flew on a Leavenworth street-car yesterday afternoon. A conductor collided with Colonel John S. Mosby, the guerrilla chieftain, and the Colonel laid the conductor in remnants on the floor. Then the gripman tried to slay the Colonel as he was shaking the prostrate remnants of the conductor. Then the ladies in the car came to the old Colonel's rescue and carpeted the dummy with the gripman's hair.

The Colonel started out from his hotel for a quiet ride on the cable cars. Owing to the crowd Mosby was obliged to take an inside seat. Presently the inside began to fill up. A lady entered and looked around. Every seat was taken. The Colonel gave her his seat. Having performed this courtesy the Colonel looked around and noticed that some of the seats on the grip had become vacant. The afternoon was scorching hot and the Colonel went outside.

"May I cross to the dummy?" he asked the gripman. "You can't, you know it," said that official.

Hot words followed. The Colonel knocked the conductor down and hammered him. The car was stopped and the gripman, a large, powerful man, attacked Mosby.

Three lady passengers assisted by pull the gripman's hair. Squeals rent the air; the gripman got up and bolted; so did Colonel Mosby; so did the battered conductor, and the latter chased out to seek the police. Afterward Colonel Mosby said: "Generally I try to stomach insults from men in that class, for I hate a row. But you see that Mitkiewicz affair has make me a bit irritable, and so I smashed the fellow.

Mosby bears a few marks of the encounter. His knees are peeled and his thumb is scratched. The conductor, however, has a face that is unfit for publication.

—We briefly announced last night the arrival of Capt. Reardon from Quincy. We are glad to note that the Captain is renewing his youth. The Captain reports our fellow citizen, Thomas Wade, as having returned to duty as chief engineer in the steam-boiler department of the Soldiers' Home after a pleasant vacation among Dixon friends.

—A correspondent of "Our Dumb Animals" tells this horse story: "A team of handsome horses was standing in front of my door. The near horse was munching some grass contentedly, which the off horse could not reach. Suddenly, to my astonishment, the near horse raised his head with his mouth full of grass and held it near his companion's mouth. The off horse accepted the apparent invitation to eat, and took the grass from the other one's mouth. After turning and eating awhile on his own account he repeated this maneuvre, and I then called in the other members of my family to watch them. There could be no mistake about it; the horse which could reach the grass fed his companion at short intervals as long as they stood before the door.

The announcement that a new metallic alloy of unusual properties has been discovered will not astonish any one who knows how diverse are the qualities of certain metals in different combinations. The alleged discovery may not amount to anything, but were it all that is reported it would be no more wonderful than the evolution of steel from iron through a cause apparently so slight as the difference in the quantity of carbon incorporated, the carbon itself having none of the distinctive qualities of the metal. Neither can it be as strange as the differences that can be shown, successively, in a given piece of iron or steel under varying treatment with heat, water, oil, etc.; the results are known, but the explanations do not always explain. Some of the bronzes are equally wonderful and inexplicable, and some unexpected possibilities and certainties of zinc have been discovered by accident. Many experiments in metallurgy are still as erratic and unsatisfactory as anything in alchemy, but expert manipulators have in the past few years seen much to encourage them in their work. To transmute base metals into gold has "nothing in it" compared with bringing the common metals to their own most valuable forms. Any one of several existing steel making processes is worth more than the richest gold deposit in the world.

Death of an Old Settler.

Henry Wingert died at his home near Franklin Grove Monday evening at the age of eighty-eight years. Old age and paralysis were the causes of his death. He was born in Franklin county, Pennsylvania, moved to Puble county, Ohio, in 1833, and came to his late home in this county in 1852. He followed farming as a business from his youth up. The following of his children reside in this county; Waltter J. Wingert, Elizabeth Wingert, Mrs. Zachariah Emmert, Mrs. Arthur Phillips and John W. Wingert. The funeral was held this (Wednesday) afternoon from the late residence. Mr. Wingert was always respected for those noble characteristics which make up true manhood. He had been a reader of THE DIXON TELEGRAPH from the time of its first issue, we believe, and we have known him personally from that time to respect and honor him as an intelligent citizen and an honest man.

The Sick Cattle—No Serious Trouble Apprehended.

Last week THE TELEGRAPH gave an extended description of the new disease that has made its appearance among the cattle, and especially the cows, in several parts of our state. We also gave a remedy recommended by the State Board of Stock Commissioners, through the official Vetenary Surgeon, and it would be well for the subscribers of this paper to preserve a copy of the receipt. It may prove to be worth the amount you pay for several years subscription to THE TELEGRAPH, especially now that the disease has made its appearance in South Dixon and Nachusa to a slight extent. One or two of the cows of the herds have felt the effects of the strange disease, but such precautions are being taken that there is not much fear of serious trouble. Still farmers cannot be too cautious in watching their cows and noting every symptom indicating sickness. For that purpose it would be well to remember what we said in that behalf in this paper last week. In such matters it is well to remember the "stich in time" adage, for if taken in time the malady can be kept under control. It is a fearful disease when once under full sway. Every dairyman should be watchful and on his guard.

It Is Not a Boom.

THE TELEGRAPH has, as its readers may have well understood in all the marvelous prosperity which the city has enjoyed for the past two or three years, insisted that citizens should avoid any sort of an effort looking towards what is understood as a boom. THE TELEGRAPH does not believe in booms; what it desires and rejoices in is a steady, continuous growth for Dixon. For this blessing it has worked more than two score of years and it has finally been made happy by seeing its fondest hopes realized. A boom for a city operates very much as a drunk serves the individual; he imagines that he enjoys a good time for a brief hour only to find that it has ended in a headache, humiliation and the realization that he has made a fool of himself. Booms work real estates up to prices above actual values and crowd a city with trades people and mechanics until the competition becomes ruinous, and instead of prosperity the boom soon brings distress. We would have business flourish; we would delight in seeing all our people prosperous. A prosperous people will build up a city, but the reverse is the result of overcrowded trade. What we want is manufacturing establishments that give employment to citizens and supply all the world with commodities needed. With few exceptions Dixon is on this or that line of policy now and THE TELEGRAPH hopes that it will so continue.

Miss Edna DePuy, of Nachusa, was the guest of Miss Annie Fry during the last week of the Assembly.

Mrs. Francis Purbaugh gave a dinner Thursday in honor of Mrs. Jos. Halstead, Mrs. Josiah Fry, Mrs. S. Boyer, Mrs. L. E. Hart and Mrs. Wm. DePuy. The ladies appreciated the honor and hearty welcome of their kind hostess.

Miss Annie Mooney, of Amboy, visited a few days last week with her sister, Mrs. W. J. Barry, of South Crawfords Ave.

Jake Echternach, connected with A. K. Chester & Co., drove up from Sterling Thursday, to enjoy the Assembly and shake hands with Dixon and Sterling friends. He speaks highly of Dixon's grand growth and says he enjoys coming here.

Mrs. Martha Blackman was agreeably surprised on the morning of the 20inst at her pleasant home about three miles up the river, by the arrival of a wagonette from Amboy bringing a dozen lady friends to spend the day and assist in celebrating her 69th birthday. The day was merrily spent and the dinner "fit to serve a king." Many tokens of remembrance were left to often remind her of this social event. The ladies who participated in the day's enjoyment were Mrs. Joe Blackman and daughters Stella and Ruthy, Mrs. Geo. Young and daughter Kittie Keefer, Mrs. Andrew Brown and niece, of Dubuque, Ia., Mrs. Spencer and Mrs. Rosier, all of Amboy; Mrs. S. A. Bender, Mrs. J. M. Santee and Mrs. John Blackman, of Nachusa.

THROUGH VERMONT

The President Resumes His Green Mountain State Tour.

A DAY OF GREETING AND GODSPEED.

Hearty Welcomes and Good-Byes at Every Station Along the Route—Eight Short Addresses Delivered Between Start and Finish—Some Points from the Speeches—Ride in Seward Webb's Steam Yacht—St. Albans People Illuminate Their Houses in Honor of the Occasion.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Aug. 26.—The president's train left Saratoga yesterday morning for a tour of the Green Mountain state. With the president at the start were Secretary Proctor, Private Secretary Halford, the press correspondents and others. The trip to this place was a series of ovations, short stops being made at a number stations, at which the president made short speeches and did a turn of handshaking. At Fort Edward there was an informal reception to about 150 people. At Whitehall there was a big crowd, composed partly of the Washington County Veterans' association. A brass band played, the people cheered, and the first speech of the day was made and received with great enthusiasm. It was an earnest and patriotic speech, and especially touched the hearts of the veterans present.

The Reception at Fair Haven.

The next stop was at Fair Haven. The train arrived nearly twenty minutes late and there was some delay at the station because of a misunderstanding about the programme. Finally the president left the car and escorted by the local committee passed through the station. A platform decorated with bunting had been erected on the other side of the station. Standing on this platform the president was introduced to the assemblage by Mr. Howard and made his second brief address in which he eulogized the thrift and industry of the New England farmer, who had wrested a living from an unwilling soil. After returning to his car he remained on the rear platform as the train pulled out, bowing to the cheering throng. At Castleton another brief stop was made and the third short speech delivered.

Veazey Joins the President.

There was no speech at Rutland, the stop not being long enough, but the president bowed his acknowledgments to the cheers of the crowd. Here General Veazey joined the party. Brandon was reached at 11:12 a. m. and showers of golden rod fell on the president as he appeared, while the booming of cannon announced his arrival. He was introduced to the people by Ex-Governor Ormsbee and made his fourth address. Another shower of golden rod fell all over him as the train pulled out. Half an hour later a stop was made at Middlebury, where Ex-Governor Stewart introduced the president, and he made his fifth address, thanking the people for their hearty greeting. A few stations were then passed without a stop, each station being crowded to see the distinguished traveler and give him a welcoming cheer.

A Reference to the "Unpleasantness."

At Vergennes there was a five minutes' stop, and again the president spoke—the sixth time. In the course of his remarks he said, referring to the time before the war: "There had spread unfortunately over the minds of some of our southern brethren the impression that you were so much given to money, to thrift, and to toil that your hands had forgotten how to fight. It was a most wholesome lesson when the whole country learned again in the gallant charges and stubborn resistance of the Vermont brigade that the old New England spirit still lived; that Paul Revere still rode the highways of New England, and the men of Concord and Lexington and Bennington still ploughed her fields." [Applause].

General Veazey left the train at Charlotte, and there was but one stop—at Shelburne—between that point and this city, where the train arrived at 12:55 p. m.

THE RECEPTION AT BURLINGTON.

A Drive and a Luncheon, Followed by a Trip in a Yacht.

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Aug. 26.—President Harrison was received at Burlington by a committee of citizens headed by United States Senator Edmunds, Mayor Hazleton, Colonel W. Seward Webb, and others. From the car the president was escorted through the cheering crowd to some carriages which stood at the entrance to the station. When the president and his party was seated, the line of carriages was driven around College Green to give the president an opportunity to see Billing's library and the college buildings. They then proceed down Main street to the residence of Senator Edmunds, where the president was to take luncheon. Those who sat down to luncheon were the Hon. Edward J. Phelps, Elias Lyman, Secretary Proctor, ex-Governor Stewart, ex-Governor Ormsbee, General William Wells, the Hon. A. F. Walker, and a dozen other well known gentlemen.

Compliment to Ex-Senator Edmunds.

Following the luncheon the president and party were driven to the library building facing the public square, where a stand had been erected, in front of which a great throng had gathered. Mayor Hazleton introduced the president who spoke briefly and was cheered vociferously. In the course of his speech he paid the following compliment to Ex-Senator Edmunds: "I am glad to see here, at his home, the respect and honor in which George F. Edmunds is deservedly held by the people of Vermont. [Applause.] Having for six years witnessed the value of his services as a legislator in the senate of the United States, I share with you the regret that this country is no longer enjoying those services, though it is a source of gratification to you, as it is to me, to know that in his love and loyalty to the state he has so highly honored, in his love and loyalty to the union of states, there will be no call for his wise council and help that will not find ready response from the walks of private life which he has chosen to resume." [Applause.]

The Rule of the Majority.

He continued as follows: "Let us pursue our lines of division. It is characteristic of a free people. It is essential to that mental agitation and unrest out of which the highest and best is evolved; but let us never forget that the fundamental thought of our government is the rule of the majority, lawfully expressed at pure and clean elections; and that when thus expressed laws enacted by those chosen to make laws, and support of thee xecu tive officers chosen, are no less binding on the minority than on the majority. [Applause.] They are ours, our servants, our representatives to whom we yield the respect of office and that measure of personal regard to which their lives may entitle them." [Applause.]

By Steam Yacht to Maquam.

With a few words about this year's reward to the husbandman and of thanks for his kind reception he closed, and was then driven to the landing of the Champlain Boat club, where Seward Webb's beautiful steam yacht Elfrida lay at anchor. There was a large crowd in the gallery of the boat house to see the president embark. Dr. Webb stepped into the tender and assisted the president to follow him. When the cushioned seats of the boats were well filled he took the tiller and gave the command to shove off. As the boat glided away from the boat house the crowd on the gallery cheered an adieu. At the same moment the little brass cannon on the bow of the Elfrida began the presidential salute of twenty-one guns.

Arrival at St. Albans.

The trip was very enjoyable and was made in three and a quarter hours, the landing at Maquam being accomplished at 6:15. The president's special train, which had come up from Burlington, was waiting and the party quickly boarded it and started for St. Albans. At Swanton there was a crowd on the platform which cheered the president loudly. The arrival at St. Albans was at 7:10 last evening. Booming of cannon greeted the train and an enormous crowd was in waiting. Ex-Governor Smith and Mr. A. D. Tenney, of the local committee, welcomed the president and escorted him to his carriage which stood in waiting. The local militia and canton Franklin of Patriarchs Militant were drawn up in line opposite the president's carriage.

The Parade Through the City.

They formed in column, and, preceded by a band, headed the procession. Two mounted Knight Templars rode behind the first carriage in which sat the president, ex-Governor Smith and Mr. Tenney. In the other three carriages were the other members of the president's party and local committeemen. The procession passed through the principal streets of the city, which were decorated very beautifully and very elaborately. Dusk was falling and the line of march was marked out by strings of Chinese lanterns which hung on each side of the roadway.

Pretty Feature of the Welcome.

The private houses were illuminated and colored fires burned on the tasty lawns at the sides of the streets. In front of the Weldon house a band of little girls in white, with sashes of red, white and blue, cast flowers in front of the president's carriage. Everywhere there was the greatest enthusiasm displayed. The president was driven to the home of ex-Governor Smith where his escort drew up in line and saluted as he passed. At Governor Smith's home the president was entertained quietly at dinner.

Eighth Speech for the Day.

After dining the president was driven down town at 9 o'clock to the Welden house, where an enormous crowd was waiting to greet him. The public square opposite the hotel was hung with lanterns and illuminated with colored fire. Mr. F. C. Smith introduced the president and he made a speech of the same tenor as that which he delivered in Burlington, and evoked loud and continuous applause at its conclusion. At the conclusion Secretary Proctor was called for. He spoke briefly. The president then returned to Ex-Governor Smith's residence where he spent the night. He left for Montpelier at 9 o'clock this morning.

SHOT BY A CHICKEN THIEF.

An Illinois Farmer Badly Wounded by an Unknown Robber.

LINCOLN, Ills., Aug. 26.—At 11:30 Monday night, Daniel Sherekey, a wealthy and well known farmer of this county, was aroused by a noise in his chicken house. Arming himself with a shotgun he approached the place when a man darted out and started to run. The farmer pursued. His gun was accidentally discharged, the thief fell, and while the farmer was standing over him with clubbed gun ready to dash out his brains the thief rose suddenly and shot the farmer in the right breast and escaped to a buggy and drove away.

The Mob On the Trail.

The sheriff and deputies, with indignant neighbors and friends of the wounded man, are hunting the assassin and will probably succeed in capturing him. He left a sack where he fell and was seen in the village near the scene half an hour before the crime was committed. Intense excitement prevails, and if the thief is caught and identified beyond a doubt he will be lynched.

Dreamed of a Cancer Cure.

CHATTANOOGA, Aug. 26.—A farmer named Presswood, who lives a few miles from this city, has been spared from death by a seemingly incurable cancer which was eating into his face toward his eyes and brain. He was supposed by many to have fallen a victim, but was upon the streets Monday healed of his malady. His story is that in a dream, after he had given himself up to die, the Lord told him to go into the woods and gather a certain herb. Presswood followed his dream, and for weeks searched for the plant that was to cure him, and finally found it. He made of its leaves tea, which he applied to the cancer, and after six weeks' use of the solution his face was well. His story is vouched for by men of veracity.

Looks for an Advance in Flour.

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—"If the present European demand continues there is no question about an advance to follow in flour. Indeed, I would not be surprised to hear of flour going up $1 on the barrel," was the remark made by J. W. Sanborn, a big exporter in wheat. "During the past few weeks," he continued, "we have been exporting on an average 5,000,000 bushels of wheat weekly, an increase of nearly three-quarters over the amount at this time last year. I anticipate that at least 250,000,000 bushels will be exported to Europe this year."

Dudley on the Prospect for '92.

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—Colonel Dudley was interviewed Monday by a Post reporter. He said that Blaine would be the Republican nominee in 1892, because the people demanded him, and do not warm up to Harrison, who does not excite enthusiasm. If Blaine was a candidate Indiana's delegation would be for him. He did not believe Blaine would decline a nomination—in fact, could not decline.

Another Bank Charter Extended.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The corporate existence of the Dixon National bank, of Dixon, Ills., has been extended to Aug. 26, 1911.

WILL LOOM ALOFT.

A Sky-Scraper for Odd Fellows at Chicago.

GREATEST HOUSE ON THE PLANET.

A Structure That Will Simply Be "Out of Sight" of Anything Heretofore Put Up—Thirty-Four Stories and 556 Feet High, with 1,000 Offices, Besides Halls and an Immense Drill Room Capable of Accommodating One Entire Battalion—New York Nowhere.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Negotiations for the location of the proposed Odds Fellows' temple are nearly complete. While the gentlemen who have charge of the real estate transactions are unwilling to give any information concerning the property deal now under consideration, some interesting information regarding the immense structure to be erected has been gained from other sources. The drawings for the general character of the building have been made, and the details of the plan will be worked out as soon as the property transactions are concluded, which will probably be in a few days. The Odd Fellows' temple will not only be the tallest structure in the world, but it will also be the biggest in other respects.

Will Cost Over Four Millions.

It is to be a building that will eclipse anything ever before attempted in either the classical or modern age in the architectural line. Over $4,000,000 will be expended in the undertaking for the purchase of real estate and the construction. The architectural design is so arranged as to furnish outside light to every single one of the 1,000 offices which will be contained in the building, besides the numerous halls and rooms for the purposes of the order and the stores on the ground and second floors. These thousand offices will have at least 5,000 occupants, so that a population equal to the number of inhabitants of quite a large city will find accommodations in this one building.

The Auditorium To Be Eclipsed.

The structure will not only be gigantic in dimensions, but ornamental in its architecture and magnificent in its appointments. In the matter of space both the Auditorium and the Masonic Temple now in course of construction will be left far behind. This will require an amount of valuable space occupied by no other structure, except the Congress street front of the Auditorium, but the Odd Fellows' Temple will be deeper than the massive structure on Michigan avenue. One of the most prominent downtown locations has been chosen for the building and the negotiations are all but concluded.

Higher Than the Washington Monument.

To begin with, the temple is to have a main frontage of 225 feet, and its central portion will rise to an eminence of 556 feet, which is one foot higher than the Washington monument and fifty-five feet higher than the spire of the great cathedral in Cologne. This central portion will have thirty-four stories, and thus be twelve stories higher than the Masonic temple. Above the central part is to be a cupola surmounted by a spire. The main part is to be flanked by a twenty-two story structure on each side, and from these three parts extend four wings in the shape of a cross. Each of these wings is also twenty-two stories in height, and thus there will be six parts, each of which will have the same height as the Masonic Temple.

A GREAT HALL FOR DRILLS.

The Top Floor to Accomodate a Whole Battalion.

One of the features of the structure is to be a drill hall on the top floor of one of the wings in which an entire battalion can drill simultaneously. This feature will be of great importance to the uniform branch of the order and make it possible to obtain a degree of excellence in tactical movements unequaled by any other order. Of course, such an immense structure as the central portion, with its dome and spire is to be, will require the greatest care in the matter of foundation, and some very fine engineering problems remain to be solved. A gentleman, speaking of this phase of construction yesterday, said that it might become necessary to dig down to a depth of seventy or eighty feet to reach ground solid enough for the foundation for the tall tower, and it might even be required to dig for the solid rock.

"Out of Sight" of New York.

There is not the slightest doubt in the minds of the energetic men who manage the affair that by the time of the World's fair the Odd Fellows' temple will be far enough under way to impress the visitors from all parts of the world with its gigantic dimensions. It will eclipse the attempt now being made in New York to erect a building taller than ever attempted in Chicago.

This New York building is to be on a site on the west side of lower Broadway, opposite Bowling Green, extending from Broadway to Greenwich street, and between the Washington building and the Stevens house. This building will cost about $4,000,000, and it is heralded to be the largest business building in the world, though as it has been shown, Chicago will in the Odd Fellow's temple, still be ahead of New York.

Mighty Close Shave, However.

The main structure of this building is to be twenty-two stories high, and from its top a great tower will lift its copper dome to an altitude of 550 feet, six feet lower than the Odd Fellows' temple is to be. There will be stone walls in the New York building part of the way up, but their object will be ornament and not utility. They will be required to bear no weight. There will be terra cotta blocks to the very top of the big building, but their outward show of massiveness will mean nothing. The building will derive all its strength from within.

Novel Shape of the Floor Plan.

It will be in effect as solid as if originally a block of steel in which halls, corridors and offices were tunneled. The floor plan of the building will be in the shape of a letter S, and it will cover about 32,000 feet of the surface area. There will be six stories in the tower above the main roof, making twenty-eight in all, or six less than in the Odd Fellows' temple.

Condemned the Cincinnati Convention.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 26.—The Farmers' Alliance of Oklahoma concluded a territorial convention Monday. Delegates were present from every county in the territory. The Ocala platform was unanimously adopted, and the action of the Cincinnati convention condemned.

THE HORROR IN PARK PLACE.

Six More Bodies Found, but Work Going On Very Slowly.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The ghastly work of taking the dead from the ruined pile in Park place continues. A hundred men working day and night since Saturday have succeeded in clearing away less than one-half the ruins. There are tons and tons of debris there, and it may hide scores of bodies. The list of fatalities will not be known until all of that is gone, and work hard as they will with the improved methods that have been adopted it will take from thirty to forty-eight hours to clear it away.

Identified by Their Jewelry.

Six bodies blackened by the burning, bruised and torn by the awful fall, and crushed by the tons of iron and brick were taken out yesterday before noon. Two were identified, not by their features, for they were beyond recognition, but by jewelry and trinkets that were found in the pockets of the remnants of clothing they wore. They were the bodies of F. W. Trippe, the druggist, and W. H. Ellis, of the firm of Ellis & Donald. The other bodies were those of workingmen.

Other Corpses Uncovered.

As these bodies were removed others had been seen near where they were lying, but weighed down by debris so that they could not be got at. Reports do not agree as to how many there were in sight. Some said three, some five, and others only one. As soon as the firemen began to work to take them out, more debris fell and covered them again.

SAYS HE HAS PLENTY OF MONEY.

Secretary Foster on the Redemption of the Four-and-a-Halfs.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Secretary Foster said yesterday afternoon that there would be no occasion for him to call on the bank deposits—about $15,000,000 are now in national banks—to enable to him to meet the redemption of 4½ per cent. bonds on Sept. 2. He had, he said, $106,000,000 with which to pay less than $30,000,000 bonds. The bonds so far extended amount to $21,338,150.

Simply as a Matter of Prudence.

Secretary Foster, however, has decided—not that he wants the money, but as a matter of prudence—to reduce the balance placed in the hands of disburing agents. There was at the close of business yesterday $34,000,000 to their credit, and he said he intended to reduce this amount to $20,000,000 within the next few months. He thought a balance of $20,030,000 sufficient working margin for them.

Work of the Base Ball Clubs.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Following are the scores made yesterday at base ball by the League: At Cincinnati—Cincinnati, 12; New York, 4. At Chicago—Chicago, 28; Brooklyn, 5. At Pittsburg—Pittsburg, 1; Boston, 7. At Cleveland—Cleveland, 7; Philadelphia, 4.

Association: At Boston—Boston, 8; Milwaukee, 0. At Philadelphia—Athletic, 4; Louisville, 1. Baltimore-Columbus game prevented by wet grounds. Washington St. Louis game postponed—rain.

Western: At Denver—Kansas City, 5; Denver, 9. At Sioux City—Omaha, 0; Sioux City, 4—only four innings—rain.

Illinois Iowa: At Ottumwa—Ottumwa, 2; Quincy, 5. At Rockford—Game given to Rockford because Cedar Rapids refused to play, one of the team having been ordered from the field by the umpire. At Ottawa—The game stood 6 to 3 in favor of Ottawa when the umpire refused to allow Welhi to go on in place of Tebeau for Joliet, Welhi having been ordered off previously. A big kick followed and the umpire gave game to Ottawa.

The Union Veterans' Union.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 26.—The sixth annual encampment of the Union Veterans' Union began here yesterday, with a large attendance of old soldiers from all parts of the country. Every train that arrived in the city during the afternoon brought one or more delegations, and the streets presented quite a martial appearance as the old veterans walked about seeing the sights and exchanging stories of old times. The first session of the encampment was postponed until today, so as to give all a chance to participate.

The Gold We Have Exported.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—A table prepared at the bureau of statistics, treasury department, shows that the value of merchandise imported into the United States during July was $65,339,657, while the value of exports for the same month was $62,654,129. The same table shows how the United States has been drained of gold during the seven months of the present calendar year, no less than $71,123,078 having been sent abroad, while only $4,355,412 has been returned to this country.

Patriotic Sons of America.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug 26.—The national camp of the Patriotic Sons of America convened in this city yesterday. Mr. George P. Smith, the national president, occupied the chair. Mayor Stuart delivered an address of welcome. President Smith responded to the mayor's welcome. State President Frank B. Spese, on behalf of the 48,000 members of the order in this commonwealth, heartily welcomed the visitors to Philadelphia and Pennsylvania. The order has 85,000 members all told.

Conflagration in a Texas Town.

WACO, Aug. 26.—An incendiary fire at Moody, this county, destroyed half the business part of the town, including the postoffice, with a total loss of $20,000; insurance less than $6,000. Compaint was made by seven citizens charging Fred Solasth, a stonecutter, with arson. There is much indignation, and it is probable that Solasth would have been lynched had he not been removed to Waco.

Brewers to Support Boycotts.

ST. LOUIS Aug. 26.—The national brewers' convention continued their session yesterday. It was decided to establish a reserve fund to organize unions and support boycotts. Considerable discussion was had as to whether Rochester, N. Y., beer should be classified as union beer, but the matter was referred to the incoming executive board.

A Posse to Go After "Bob Sims."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Solicitor General Taft has authorized United States Marshal Walker, of Alabama, to procure a posse, and if possible capture "Bob Sims," known as the "Prophet," who is now in Choctaw county, Ala., a fugitive from justice.

The Loving Husband Willing to Let His Wife Commit Suicide, Which She Tries to Do—An Absent-Minded Father Who Headed His Six-Year-Old Son in a Barrel—A Remarkable Indiana Hen of a Unique Malhattonism.

SPRING LAKE, N. J., Aug. 26.—Considerable excitement was caused here Monday by an attempt of a woman to commit suicide by plunging into the surf opposite the Hotel Allaire. She was Mrs. Martha Wilkie, wife of John Wilkie. They have quarreled a great deal of late, and Monday afternoon they started for a walk on the beach. When opposite the Allaire they quarreled loudly. Suddenly Mrs. Wilkie was heard to exclaim: "I'll kill myself."

Invited Her to Go Ahead.

"There is the ocean," said the husband, "go drown yourself." The woman promptly sprang into the breakers and fell forward, disappearing in the spray. Mr. Wilkie calmly stood and watched her as she was tossed about and the next wave threw her on the shore almost at his feet. He never moved, and the woman sprang up and rushed into the waves again. This time she succeeded in getting beyond the breakers, and it seemed as if her wish for death was to be granted. Several guests called to the man to go in and get his wife.

Came Near Being Successful.

But he told them that she wanted to die, and he was going to let her. The people then became alarmed, and the bathing master came down on a run and brought the woman ashore. She was unconscious, but soon revived. Judge Keeley, who is a guest at the Allaire, talked to the woman for a while, and then escorted both husband and wife to their home. The woman said she would not attempt suicide again, and the husband promised to watch her closely.

ON THE HEATHEN CHINEE PLAN

The Way a Connecticut Man Headed Up a Cider Barrel.

NORTH LYME, Conn., Aug. 26.—A peculiar case of absent-mindedness came to light here Saturday on the examination of George Bump, who had been arrested at the instigation of his wife on the charge of attempting to kill his son. Bump is an eccentric Yankee who lives on a small farm in the backwoods. He has a wife and one child. Friday afternoon Bump was in the yard trying to put a head in a barrel to be used for holding cider. He could not make the head stay up until he tightened the hoops, and putting his deaf and dumb 4-year-old son inside the barrel to hold up the head he went on with his work. The plan worked first-rate and he soon had the barrel headed up.

Leaving the yard he went out into the field to dig potatoes, forgetting the boy in the barrel until his attention was called to him by his wife who went to the field and excitedly inquired if he had seen Thomas. Bump dropped his hoe and ran for the barrel. The boy was breathing through the bunghole. The head of the barrel was knocked in and the boy lifted out. He was so frightened that he went into spasms and his life is almost despaired of. Bump was released from custody, the authorities being satisfied that he had not intentionally barreled up his son.

A FEMALE RIGHTS HEN.

Or a Mulhatton Yarn That Can Wear the Belt for Awhile.

COLUMBUS, Ind., Aug. 26.—Mr. Dixon, a farmer residing a few miles south of this city, has a hen that is now several years old, which up to last spring had a coat of feathers after the fashion of other hens and laid an abundance of eggs each season, up to the present. Early last spring the hen shed her feathers almost to nudeness, and when the feathers grew out again the first to appear were the long and beautiful flowing tail feathers common to the farm-yard rooster, and in a short time the whole body was fully feathered in a brilliant coat of male attire and has every appearance of a rooster except the large comb and head-dress of red. She now crows in good style, but continues to lay eggs.

KELLY SPOILED IT ALL.

The Ten Thousand Dollar Beauty in the Way of Base Ball Harmony.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The magnates of the League and Association base ball aggregations met in this city yesterday to patch up some sort of a scheme by which they can get along without friction and with satisfaction to the stockholders of the clubs. The committee of the two organizations got together at 5 p. m. and were in session until a late hour. They had nothing to give out.

A Hitch in the Proceedings.

LATER.—The meeting broke up at 12:30 this morning with an obstacle ahead that looks insurmountable. Just as an agreement had been reached Kraemer, of the Association, said he had the news that Mike Kelly had jumped his contract with the Boston Association team and signed with the Boston League team. He said that unless the League held Kelly to his contract no agreement could be reached. The League men declined to interfere and the conference broke up.

Great Movement of Wheat.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 26.—The greatest crop of wheat in the history of Kansas is being moved. Monday 607 cars of it were received here, the largest receipts in the history of the market. In 1882, the big crop year, the largest receipts for a single day amounted to 610 cars. Chicago received only 582 cars Monday, and St. Louis 222 cars, and it must be remembered that a large proportion of the Chicago receipts were from Kansas city.

The Wheat Crop of Minnesota.

ST. PAUL, Aug. 26.—Full crop reports have been received from all points of this state, and show an acreage of 3,000,000, while enough threshing has been done to allow fair estimates of the yield. The wheat crop in Minnesota this season will not be below 70,000,000 bushels, and will probably exceed that amount. The recent frosts, which have extended quite generally over the state, have not affected the final result so far as it relates to the wheat crop. The present conditions will also warrant the statement that the farmers of Minnesota will receive upwards of $80,000,000 for their crop.

SENATOR JIM NYE.

A Nineteenth Century Falstaff Who Made a Reputation at Washington.

Little Nevada has had some famous senators, and still has. Among the older hangers on about the Capitol one may still hear the echoes of laughter over Jim Nye's jokes. He sat for years at the right hand of stately, dignified Charles Sumner, and he was very fond of keeping up a running fire of comment in language which caused the fastidious New Englander to raise his eyes in astonishment. Sumner, who was the soul of politeness, was often greatly embarrassed by Nye's conversation, being shocked almost beyond expression and yet not wishing to show offense.

Nye was a sort of Falstaff of the Nineteenth century, and everybody liked him. He had little or no literary culture, and was not much burdened with convictions. If he had any he didn't trouble others with them. He would rather raise a laugh than make a speech any day. Horace Greeley once sat down on the senator's new hat, and Nye, picking up the crushed stovepipe, said gravely, "I could have told you it wouldn't fit before you tried it on."

The few speeches which he did make were rather strings of anecdote than arguments on the question before the senate. One of his stories was of the Irishman who visited a large city and the dogs took after him. He tried to pick the paving stones out of the street to stone the dogs, and failing in this struck an attitude and exclaimed, "A foine country for liberty where they turn the dogs loose and tie the stones down!"

Once Nye tried his hand at kite flying. "The goddess of liberty," he exclaimed, "has her home in the mountains of my state of Nevada."

"Quite a solitary residence for a lady," remarked Senator Hendricks quietly.

This raised a laugh at the expense of Nevada, but Nye was equal to the emergency.

"Liberty," said he, "is a mountain nymph, and when the flag goes down elsewhere you will find it barricaded and protected in our mountain fastnesses, where our people inhale liberty unmingled with the malaria of those unfortunate states along the Ohio. We breathe the pure air of heaven, while in Indiana they have to mix theirs with quinine."

Nye and Stewart came to the senate about the same time, and were both from New York, born within fifty miles of each other. The former always called himself Jim Nye, and liked to have others address him in the same way. He was a man of large frame and appetites, long, luxuriant hair, prematurely whitened, a fat, beardless face. He was known as the best quick speaker in the senate. He had imagination, vivid description, flashes of wit and true Irish humor.

One of the best things he ever said was of Senator Sprague, of Rhode Island, who is still living in seclusion on his ancestral estates near Newport. Sprague had interrupted one of Nye's flights of eloquence, whereupon the Nevada man turned to his neighbors and remarked loud enough to be heard all over the hall, "I can't hit a canary bird like that with a cannon ball."—Scranton Truth.

The Practical Man and the Scientist.

For the sake of illustrating the difference between the practical man and the theorist, let us suppose two persons to visit the northern peninsula of Michigan seeking for iron. The one runs along blindly, takes up with every good show, and mines. The result is, he either makes a happy strike by mere accident or spends thousands of dollars in useless search.

The other has studied the laws of electricity, and knows that certain ores of iron are magnetic. He understands also that these ores will exert their influence through any amount of superincumbent earth. Consequently he provides himself with a dipping needle and compass, and by the operation of these tells where a bed is located, its approximate depth and probable amount of material. To prevent being deceived by the magnetic schists in that region, by means of his dipping needle and compass he traces up the bed until he finds an outcrop.

Thus have been located, at little expense, many of the mining regions of that locality. What an achievement is this, and how much better than the blind guesses of the so called practical man!—W. H. Smith, M. D. in Popular Science Monthly.

Occupations in Heaven.

A little Vermont friend aged four stood by the window as the family physician drove by with a smile and a bow for his little favorite. A moment later she turned from the window with a sigh and said, "Mamma, isn't it too bad that Dr. Blank can't go to heaven?" "Why, Jessie?" said mamma in surprise. "What makes you think he can't go to heaven?" "Why, of course he won't go," said Jessie. "There's nobody sick there, and they won't need any doctors."

Little Jessie's original idea was told to the clergyman, who called a day or two later, who said that he should consider that "a knock down argument" against the theory that we are to continue our present occupations in the future life. A popular physician on hearing the above said that he did not see why the doctors had not as good a chance as the ministers, for surely there would be no souls to save in the better land.—Rochester Free Press.

A French Barber's Joke.

Everybody knows that little joke of a barber at the expense of a young "Lyceen," who, glowing with pride at the discovery, fancied or real, of the first appearance of tender down on his chin, hurried off to the hairdresser's to get shaved. The wily Figaro offered him a chair, placed a napkin around his neck, covered his face with the fragrant lather and then walked away to attend to other business, apparently quite oblivious of his new customer. Growing impatient, the latter at length exclaimed, "Well, what are you waiting for?" "For the beard to grow," was the barber's reply.—Le Petit Parisien.

Prof. Neighbour and family spent Sunday at the home of John Lawrence.

It was Miss Pheobe Myers and her friend, Miss Erb, instead of the Misses Myers, who were injured by Frank Tilton's runaway team last Wednesday. Miss Phoebe went to Dixon to meet Miss Erb, of Lena, who came to spend a few days with her at her home in Palmyra. The young ladies were returning home when their carriage was struck by a runaway team going in the same direction. The carriage was completely demolished and the young ladies severely bruised by the frightened horses.

From Sublette.

The union meeting of the societies of Christian Endeavor was held in the Congregational church pursuant to announcement. A goodly number from abroad were present, most of them coming from Amboy and Lee Center. The speaker who was to give "Echoes from the National Convention," was not present. W. D. Vaughn, of Amboy, read, in an admirable manner, a well written essay on "Our Christian Growth and Work." His style of delivery should be commended to a large majority of those who read or speak in public, including preachers. Dr Thorne, of Amboy, followed with an able article on "Results of Christian Endeavor." He said that it creates enthusiasm, without which truth would accomplish but little. It secures the conversion of young people; finds work for them to do and sets them at it. It is not denominational nor undenominational, but interdenominational. It results in increased fidelity of its members to their respective churches and promotes christian fellowship between the various denominations. These and other points were elaborated in a manner that commanded close attention. A lunch had been prepared for those who came from a distance but through some neglect the moderator did not announce it until after the adjournment.

Rev. W. E. Barton made an eighteen hours visit here recently while on his way from a lecturing engagement in Michigan to his home in Ohio.

Geo. M Patterson and wife, of Berea Kentucky, the latter a daughter of the writer, made a tendays visit in Sublette and started homeward, intending to visit a few days in Dixon, Oak Park and other places.

Mrs. Lizzie McLaughlin, of Troy Grove; Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Barton and three other ladies from Meredota, visited friends in town last week.

Nellie Strickland, who has resided in Plano the last few years, has got married for life, and has brought her husband, Charles Blakely, on a visit to her parents and her Grandfather Brown. She will receive the hearty good wishes of many friends in this vicinity.

Reverend Houser is to preach in the Baptist church a week from next Sunday. He held revival meetings here nearly one year ago and condemned unsparingly dancing, card playing in the social circle, and two other evils, but could not be induced to tell his young converts that they should not lounge and smoke tobacco in the post office or other public places.

The readers of THE TELEGRAPH will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dread disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. JAY GOULD.

Jay Gould says he will give any man $1,000,000 to cure his neuralgia. The other day a reporter saw Jay Gould, Russell Sage and Dr. Novin Green go into a restuarant and order dinner. Gould had a cup of milk, a couple of stalks of celery, and a piece of bread and butter. Sage had a chicken sandwich and a glass of milk, while Green, who is at the head of the Western Union Telegraph Co. and can afford to be extravagant order a mutton chop. When their meal was over, each one laid down the price of his individual bill and went away. All of their millions did not provide them with the appetite possessed by the meanest brakeman on any one of their roads. The secert, however of good health is abstemiousness. It may almost be put in a sentence Eat and drink sparingly and do not take cold. If you do, check it as soon as possible by taking Reid's German Cough and Kidney Cure. For sale by all druggists.

After a lively run down Galena Avenue to the store the animal came to a halt.

—There were some changes proposed and amendments made in the contract between our citizens and C. A Fargo & Co. regarding the location of the shoe factory and this caused considerable talk upon the street. We can assure our people, however, that the affair is in a very satisfactory condition. A new contract was made and is being signed by the business men, and in this everyone should aid the commitee. It is not an easy job they have.

—A Freeporter said this morning that he was reliably informed that the Fargo shoe factory would not be located at Dixon, as one of the owners of the plant had said that the factory would not be located in a town where there was another shoe factory. If that is true, an effort should be made to have the factory locate here.—Freeport Lemocrat.

Keep your seats neighbors; the Fargo shoe factory is now located in Dixon, contract signed and the ground staked off for commencing work on the foundation of the building.

—Ex President Hayes has given to the country a remarkable photograph of Major McKinley as a soldier. SATURDAY, 13th December, 1862.—Our new second lieutenant, McKinley, returned to-day—an exceedingly bright, intelligent and gentlemanly young officer. He promises to be one of the best.

Great Chance for Boys and Girls.

The Northern Illinois Normal School and Dixon Business College will open the fall term September first. One of the excellent features of this popular school is that students can enter at any time. This gives an advantage rarely found in educational institutions. Tuition $10.00 a term in normal and business departments. Both teachers and book-keepers are sent to good paying positions.

Dixon Business College though in the same building with the Northern Illinois Normal School, yet it is a distinct and co-ordinate institution, most fully equipped and abreast the times. It is conducted on the actual business plan, which it has brought to its highest degree of perfection. Actual business here is so complete and so nearly like actual business in the business world, that students experience no more difficulty taking a position than would an experienced book-keeper on taking charge of a strange or new set of books. Graduates do not have to learn their business education after they have gone out into the business world, as do the graduates of inefficient schools, but they take positions as book-keepers and accountants, directly from the institution and give fatisfaction from the start. Hundreds of our students occupy positions as members of firms, or book-keepers in banks, manufactories, etc., in Chicago and leading cities.

Small schools require high tuition because teachers, rents and all experses of the school must be paid from the tuition of a few students. Here a complete business education costs about $25.00.

Shorthand and typewriting, complete course, $40.00. Graduates are sent to good positions. Telegraphy, complete course, $40.00. Positions secured. Penmanship and pen art $10. The Musical Conservatory offers the best advantages at reasonable rates. Law course, spring and Summer, $?4. Send for catalogue, naming department in which you are interested, to J. B. DILLE, Principal.

An Amusing State of Affairs.

A novel boycott is reported from Tenville, a village in Georgia. It came about in this way: Some days ago a young beau bosted that he could call on any girl in town at will, they were all so anxious for his company. The next evening he was informed by a young lady whose company he had solicited that she had a previous engagement. She appeared at the entertainment that evening with a fourteen-year-old boy. In some way the rejected beau gained the sympathy of the young men of the town, while the young lady's pluck was indorsed by those of her own sex.

The young men held a meeting and resolved to discontinue all calls on girls of their acquaintance. Not to be outdone, the girls called a meeting and decided to scratch the names of the boycotters off their visiting lists. The result is that young men from the neighboring towns are becoming favorites with the Tenville girls, while the natives are sitting around under the shade trees plotting revenge [illegible]

Hints to Travelers.

Know your route before you commence your journey.

Have as much money as possible, but keep little of it sight.

Read your ticket carefully; it may be your guide.

Avoid useless questions and others will usually be answered politely.

Be on time; trains and boats wait for no one.

Keep your eyes and ears open. Guard against pickpockets.

If you have not your ticket ready to show at the gate don't get flustrated. Slip aside and look for it calmly—it saves time.

If you have several parcels put them all into one strap. They are easier to carry.

Don't stand so as to obstruct the way of others while saying goodby to your friends.

A New Find at Milo.

Milo, the island of the Cyclades in which the famous Venus of Milo was discovered, has again been the scene of the unearthing of a splendid example of ancient Hellenic art. The new "find" is the marble statue of a boxer, somewhat above life size, which is almost as perfect after its burial under the dust of centuries as it was when it came fresh from the hands of its sculptor. The statue has been shipped to Athens, where a commission of Greek archæologists, aided by some members of the German Archæological institute in Athens, will report upon the period of its origin and its probable creator.

Scared by the Phonograph.

One of the African convoys of King Gungrunhama in London, the other day, was nearly frightened to death by a phonograph. He talked to the instrument and when it repeated his words to him he fell on the floor in a swoon. It was some time before he gained courage to ask questions, as he thought a witch doctor was in the phonograph. He proposed to silence the witch by stuffing a dried frog's leg into the instrument, along with some other charms he had with him. Having been dissuaded from this and the matter explained, he said it was no use for him to tell lies, as all his words were recorded.

Another Wandering Turtle.

Erastus North, of Berlin, caught a turtle last week which was first captured by his father half a century ago. The following letters are carved on the shell, "L. J. Lamb, A. S., E. N., 1840." The initials "A. S." mean Albert Sanderson, who is still living in Durham. Mr. Lamb and the original Erastus North are dead. Witnesses are living who can testify that the three men referred to marked the turtle as above in 1840 and then permitted it to go free.—Hartford Courant.

From San Antonio.

Aug. Hornung, a well known manufacturer of boots and shoes at 820 Nolan-st., San Antonio, Texas, will not soon forget his experience with an attack of the cramps which he relates as follows: "I was taken with a violent cramp in the stomach, which I believe would have caused my death, had it not been for the prompt use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. The first dose did me so much good that I followed it up in 20 minutes with the second dose, and before the Doctor could get to where I was, I did not need him. This Remedy shall always be one of the main stays of the family." For sale by H. E. Donaldson Druggist, Dixon, Ill.
